WELCOME

This document aims to inform staff, faculty, and academic departments at Cornell about funding opportunities for international graduate students that want to study at Cornell and for advanced graduate students seeking funding while writing their dissertation. It provides basic information on general, regional and country-specific fellowship opportunities for graduate study for international students. Although funding for international graduate students is limited, there are a number of country-specific scholarship opportunities from outside sources that could be tapped by potential Cornell students.

The document includes fellowships open to all international students (Part 1), fellowships for international students from specific regions (Part 2) and international students from specific countries (Part 3). It focuses on those countries that are highly represented at Cornell.

The information contained within this document has been taken from the websites of the organization/foundation administering the fellowship, the former website of the National Scholarships Office of the University of Maryland at <http://www.scholarships.umd.edu/> as well as Northwestern University's Fellowship Office website at <http://www.northwestern.edu/fellowships/fellowships-for-research-internships/international-student-applicants.html>, guide to fellowships and grants from Harvard University http://www.gsas.harvard.edu/current\_students/fellowships\_office.php, and the International Toolkit from Yale <http://world-toolkit.yale.edu/>. Additional information on specific fellowships for international students is available through the fellowship database of Cornell's Graduate School www.gradschool.cornell.edu/index.php?p=132.

The following databases are useful to make a more comprehensive search of funding opportunities for international students:

- GrantForward (former IRIS search tool) - <http://www.research.cornell.edu/Funding/>
- Foundation Directory Online – <http://www.library.cornell.edu/> (please select “Databases,” enter “Foundation Directory Online”)

We welcome information on additional funding sources but at the same time would like to keep this document focused on the main and most relevant ones. The document is updated on an annual basis. If you have any questions, please contact Heike Michelsen, Director of Programming, at the Einaudi Center (hm75@cornell.edu, t. 255-8926).

PART 1 – ALL COUNTRIES

AAUW INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIPS

AAUW International Fellowships are awarded to women for full-time study or research who are not U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Fellowships support graduate or postgraduate studies at accredited institutions. The program also introduced Home-Country Project Grants, one year supplemental grants to provide additional funding for fellowship recipients to return to their home countries to implement projects benefiting women and girls. Applicants must intend to return to their home country to pursue a professional career.

CHARLOTTE W. NEWCOMBE DOCTORAL DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIPS

Charlotte W. Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowships are designed to encourage original and significant study of ethical or religious values in all fields of the humanities and social sciences, and particularly to help Ph.D. candidates in these fields complete their dissertation work in a timely manner. In addition to topics in religious studies or in ethics (philosophical or religious), dissertations appropriate to the Newcombe Fellowship competition might explore the ethical implications of foreign policy, the values influencing political decisions, the moral codes of other cultures, and religious or ethical issues reflected in history or literature. Candidates must be Ph.D. or Th.D. students; other professional degrees are not eligible. Previous candidates for the award may not apply.

Website URL: <http://woodrow.org/fellowships/newcombe/>

FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIPS FOR NON-US STUDENTS

The Fulbright Non-U.S. Student Program is designed to give master's and doctoral candidates, early-career professionals, and artists opportunities for international experience, personal enrichment, and an open exchange of ideas with citizens of other nations. More than 1,800 new Foreign Fulbright Fellows enter U.S. academic programs each year. IIE arranges academic placement for most Fulbright nominees and supervises all grantees during their stay in the United States. International students interested in applying for the Fulbright Student Program must apply through the Fulbright Program Office in their home country.

HARRY FRANK GUGGENHEIM FOUNDATION DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP

The Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation (HFG) welcomes proposals from any of the natural and social sciences and the humanities that promise to increase understanding of the causes, manifestations, and control of violence, aggression, and dominance. Particular questions that interest the foundation concern violence, aggression, and dominance in relation to social change, the socialization of children, inter-group conflict, interstate warfare, crime, family relationships, and investigations of the control of aggression and violence. Research with no useful relevance to understanding and attempting to cope with problems of human violence and aggression will not be supported, nor will proposals to investigate urgent social problems where the foundation cannot be assured that useful, sound research can be done. Priority will also be given to areas and methodologies not receiving adequate attention and support from other funding sources.

Website URL: <http://www.hfg.org/df/guidelines.htm>

FORD FOUNDATION INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIPS

The Ford Foundation International Fellowships Program (IFP) provides opportunities for advanced study to exceptional individuals who will use this education to become leaders in their respective fields, furthering development in their own countries and greater economic and social justice worldwide. To ensure that Fellows are drawn from diverse backgrounds, IFP actively seeks candidates from social groups and communities that lack systematic access to higher education. Once selected, Ford Foundation International Fellows may enroll in an appropriate university program anywhere in the world, including their country of residence. The program provides placement assistance to those Fellows not yet admitted to graduate school. Because local requirements vary widely among IFP countries, applicants should carefully follow the specific application guidelines provided by the relevant IFP International Partner organizations, including deadlines for the submission of applications.

JOINT JAPAN/WORLD BANK REGULAR GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

This annual program awards scholarships for graduate training in the theory and practice of economic policy making and management. The objective of the program is to impart to young policy-makers the skills required to design and implement policy effectively in their home countries. Open to economics, health, education, agriculture, environment, public affairs, natural resource management, or other development-related subjects. The program does not support MBA, M.Phil. or Ph.D. degrees. Applicants must be a national of a World Bank member country; hold an undergraduate degree in a development-related field; and have at least 2 years of recent professional experience, preferably in a public agency or non-governmental organization. Applicants must plan on returning to their home country after the program. In addition, they cannot work for the World Bank or the IMF for a minimum of three years, upon completion of the program.

ROBERT S. MCNAMARA FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

The Robert S. McNamara Fellowships Program provides support to young researchers working in academic and research institutions from eligible countries preparing a doctoral thesis. Research grants cover residence costs for a 5 to 10 month period in a renowned university or research center. Fellows are expected to advance their research work mainly by using the facilities and resources provided by the host institution and by interacting with peers. Candidates should be accepted or invited by a host institution which would designate an academic advisor to assist the fellow during his research period. Host institutions should also commit to provide the fellow with basic amenities such as office space and access to a computer, and to facilitate his/her research activities. Eligible candidates are evaluated by external reviewers based on three criteria: academic performance, teaching and research experience, and relevance of the proposed research program. The top candidates are submitted to the Selection Committee, which includes World Bank senior experts and Donors representatives, for final selection. In addition to the merit criteria, the Selection Committee takes into account other factors such as availability of budget, geographical diversity and gender balance. Fellows are required to issue two reports, a mid-term report during the fellowship period and a final report containing the results of the research. The results of the McNamara fellows research work may be considered for publication by the World Bank. Fellows are expected to return to their home countries and resume their academic or research position upon completion of the fellowship.

JOSEPHINE DE KÁRMÁN FELLOWSHIP

The Josephine De Kármán Fellowship Trust was established in 1954 by the late Dr. Theodore von Kármán, world renowned aeronautics expert and teacher and first director of the Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology, in memory of his sister, Josephine, who passed away in 1951. The purpose of this Fellowship program is to recognize and assist students whose scholastic achievements reflect Professor von Kármán's high standards. Ph.D. candidates in any discipline who will defend his/her dissertation by the following academic year may apply. Open to foreign students already enrolled in a U.S. university. Postdoctoral and masters degree students are not eligible for consideration. Special consideration will be given for applicants in the Humanities.

Website URL: <http://www.dekarman.org>

PEO SISTERHOOD: INTERNATIONAL PEACE SCHOLARSHIP FUND

This annual award provides grants-in-aid to selected women from other countries for graduate study in any field in the United States and Canada. Applicants must be qualified for admission to full-time graduate study and work toward a graduate degree in the United States or Canada. Applicants must have at least one year of class work remaining. Citizens of the United States or Canada and doctoral students who have completed coursework are not eligible. Not for travel support, research support, training or internships. Applicants may not hold AAUW grant at the same time.

Website URL: <http://www.peointernational.org/>

SPENCER DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIPS FOR EDUCATION

The Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education. These $25,000 fellowships support individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world. Candidates should be interested in pursuing further research in education once the doctorate is attained. U.S. and non-U.S. citizens are eligible. Applicants must be doctoral candidates.

Website URL: <http://www.spencer.org/content.cfm/fellowship-awards>

SSRC INTERNATIONAL DISSERTATION FIELD RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP (IDRF)

The International Dissertation Research Fellowship (IDRF) program supports distinguished graduate students in the humanities and social sciences conducting dissertation research outside the United States. The IDRF program is committed to scholarship that advances knowledge about non-U.S. cultures and societies grounded in empirical and site-specific research (involving fieldwork, research in archival or manuscript collections, or quantitative data collection). The program promotes research that is situated in a specific discipline and geographical region and is engaged with interdisciplinary and cross-regional perspectives. It invites proposals for empirical and site-specific dissertation research outside the United States. It will consider applications for dissertation research grounded in a single site, informed by broader cross-regional and interdisciplinary perspectives, as well as applications for multi-sited, comparative, and trans-regional research. Proposals that identify the US as a case for comparative inquiry are welcome; however, proposals which focus predominantly or exclusively on the United States are not eligible. Proposals may cover all periods in history, but must address topics that have relevance to contemporary issues and debates. Seventy-five fellowships were awarded in 2008 with funds provided by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

UNITED STATES INSTITUTE OF PEACE – PEACE SCHOLAR DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP

The Jennings Randolph program awards Peace Scholar Dissertation Fellowships to students at U.S. universities researching and writing doctoral dissertations on international conflict and peace. Named for the former United States Senator from West Virginia whose efforts over four decades helped establish USIP, the Jennings Randolph program has awarded nearly 200 Peace Scholar Dissertation Fellowships. The program has established itself since its founding in 1987 as one of the nation's premier fellowship programs for research on international conflict management and peace-building. USIP invites applications for Peace Scholar awards offered by the Jennings Randolph program. These fellowships are intended to support the research and writing of doctoral dissertations addressing the sources and nature of international conflict and ways of preventing or ending conflict and sustaining peace. Dissertation projects from all disciplines are welcome. Priority will be given to projects that contribute knowledge relevant to the formulation of policy on international peace and conflict issues.

WENNER-GREN DISSERTATION FIELDWORK GRANTS

A variety of the Foundation's grants support students enrolled in doctoral programs leading to a Ph.D. (or equivalent), including grants for dissertation research in all branches of anthropology. There are also fellowship programs for doctoral students from countries where anthropology is underrepresented and where there are limited resources for educational training. The two programs listed below are applicable for graduate students of all nationalities:

- i) Dissertation Fieldwork Grants for up to $25,000 are awarded to individuals enrolled in a doctoral program to support dissertation research. Applicants must be engaged in research that contributes to anthropological knowledge. Applicants of any nationality or country of residence may apply.
- ii) Wadsworth International Fellowships provide funds to support study leading to a Ph.D. or equivalent doctoral degree in anthropology. Fellowships are made for amounts up to $17,500 per year with the possibility of renewal for a total of four years of funding. Applicants must be from countries where anthropology is underrepresented and where there are limited resources to send students overseas for training.

THE SMITH RICHARDSON FOUNDATION, INC. WORLD POLITICS AND STATECRAFT FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

The Smith Richardson Foundation is pleased to announce its new annual grant competition to support Ph.D. dissertation research on American foreign policy, international relations, international security, strategic studies, area studies, and diplomatic and military history.

The fellowship's objective is to support the research and writing of policy-relevant dissertations through funding of fieldwork, archival research, and language training. In evaluating applications, the Foundation will accord preference to those projects that could directly inform U.S. policy debates and thinking, rather than dissertations that are principally focused on abstract theory or debates within a scholarly discipline. Applicants must be attending a program in a U.S.-based college or university. There is no citizenship requirement. Applicants are reminded that one element of the proposal evaluation process is based on the topic's relevance to a U.S. policy audience.

PART 2 – COUNTRY GROUPS

LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN

ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN STATES ACADEMIC SCHOLARSHIPS

The objective of the Organization of American States (OAS) Program of Scholarships and Training is to assist OAS member states with their domestic efforts in pursuit of integral development goals by supporting human resource development in the priority areas established by the Summits of the Americas, the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI), and the OAS General Assembly. OAS graduate scholarships are offered for study towards a Master's or Doctorate degree. They may also be used for research, if required by a specific academic program. Please refer to the OAS website below for a full list of member states and participating universities and further details about the scholarships.

Website URL: <http://www.educoas.org/default2.aspx?q=%3Flang=es>

Additionally, the OAS also offers interest free educational loans to qualified students from Latin American and Caribbean countries through the Leo S. Rowe Pan American Fund.

Website URL: <http://www.oas.org/rowe>

JOHN SIMON GUGGENHEIM MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP

The objective of this fellowship is to further the development of scholars and artists by assisting them to engage in research in any field of knowledge and creation in any of the arts. The Fellowships are awarded to persons who have demonstrated exceptional capacity for productive scholarship or exceptional creative ability in the arts. Citizens and permanent residents of Latin America and the Caribbean are eligible to apply. The amounts of the grants will be adjusted to the needs of the Fellows, considering their other resources and the purpose and scope of their plans.

SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA

CORNELL UNIVERSITY INSTITUTE FOR AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT (IAD) TUITION FELLOWSHIPS

The Institute for African Development (IAD) Tuition Fellowship Award is a one-year non-renewable fellowship awarded on a competitive basis to graduate students from sub-Saharan Africa. Offered on an annual basis, the fellowship covers tuition and fees for one academic year, but does not cover travel, living, or other expenses associated with studying at Cornell. Recipients of the fellowship need to show additional financial support from other sources to cover travel and living expenses. Prospective students cannot apply directly to IAD for the award. They must first apply to the department of their choice, and if accepted, the Department Chair or Director of Graduate Studies may nominate them for an IAD Tuition award. Contact: Jackie Sayegh, Program Coordinator, Institute for African Development, Cornell University, 170 Uris Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853. Tel: (607) 255-6849. E-mail: CIAD@cornell.edu.
